

End User License Agreement

The End User License Agreement is a legal agreement that regulates the appropriate use of Qin Studio Strings as well as all products including samples, sound patches, audio content and other intellectual property provided by Longsi Feiyang Technology Co. Ltd made available to you as our customers. By using our website, customers are obligated to comply with and be bound by the following terms of use. Please review the following terms carefully prior to using our website.

Acceptance of Agreement

By installing and registering our product on your computer. It is considered that you automatically accept this agreement with contractual conditions. You must agree to all terms of this agreement before you download or activate our product. If you fail to agree with these conditions, you must not install the software as well as obtain goods or products from our website.

Copyright/Intellectual Property

Qin Studio Strings and other relevant products designed and developed by Longsi Feiyang Technology Co, Ltd are protected by copyright, trademark, patent, and/or other intellectual property laws which means the samples and sound patches are licensed but not sold to the licensee. Therefore, any unauthorized use of the materials and service from this site and related to our products including, but not limited to samples, audio content, sound patches may be seen as the violation of such laws which is interpreted by or in accordance with laws of People's Republic of China.

Restrictions on Alteration, Copy of Transfer

Our software product may be utilized for both commercial purpose or non-commercial purpose in the creation and production of music. However, The Licensee is not permitted at any time or under any circumstances, to reproduce, re-sell, transfer or lease the software product along with all of its relevant components to a third party or use them in any competitive product. In addition, it is strictly prohibited to alter, modify or extract any audio files from our software product meanwhile incorporating it to other software or hardware for re-sale, re-licensing or other forms of distribution in whole or in part of these audio content, sound patches, samples. In addition, you may not upload our products or its relevant components to server, sharing systems like Google Drive or Baidu NetDisk.

Grant of Use

The license for the products is granted to single user only. You may be permitted to install our software products on 2 of your personal computers owned and used by you exclusively for backup or reinstallation purposes only. However, the software may not be used on a network by multiple users simultaneously, unless each user has purchased a license.

Term of the agreement

This license agreement takes effect at the time when you register at our website and it will remain fully effective all the time and it could only be terminated if you break any of its clauses or violate any of these conditions. Under such circumstances, upon termination, you may have to undertake certain legal responsibilities if necessary, meanwhile destroying all copies and contents of the product at your own expense.